Deconstructing the SAT Writing and Language Section

The SAT Writing and Language section consists of two main parts:

1. Reading Test: This part assesses students' ability to comprehend and analyze complex texts. It includes passages from various fields, such as literature, history, and science, accompanied by multiple-choice questions that test their understanding of the material.
2. Writing and Language Test: This part measures students' writing and language skills. It comprises three types of questions:
 1. Expression of Ideas: This question type evaluates students' ability to organize their thoughts and convey them coherently and effectively in writing.
 2. Standard English Conventions: This question type assesses students' knowledge and application of grammar, usage, mechanics, and style.
 3. Analysis in History/Social Studies and Science: This question type tests students' ability to read and analyze historical or scientific texts and explain the author's claims and evidence.
